

search:

BEAUTY	FASHION	ENTERTAINMENT	HEALTH	REINVENTION & MONEY	NEWS	RELATIONSHIPS
Celebrities, Movies, TV & Music EVENTS		Books	Food & Travel	Humor

Back to Entertainment : Books

The Best of Fall: Fiction and Short Stories

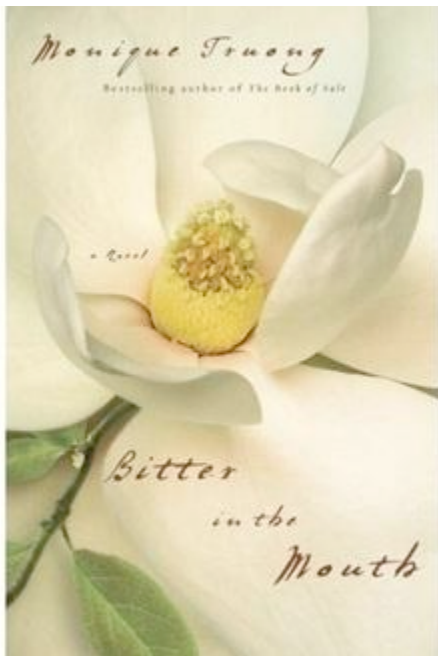

16 rich reads, some taking you to new places, some taking you deeper into the world you know.

by Rebecca Adler Warren { View Profile }

PREVIOUS

13 of 16

NEXT

Bitter in the Mouth by Monique Truong

"For me, the few words that didn't bring with them a taste were sanctuaries, a cloister in which I could hear the meaning as clear as my own heart beating," says Linda Hammerick, the memorable narrator at the center of this humorous, poignant novel. Linda has synesthesia-she tastes the words that people around her are speaking-and Truong has written a moving story about how different our experiences of the world can be. Buy it here.

CLICK TO ENLARGE

More From MORE

■ Kara DiQuattro's New Book Reveals A Best

Around The Web

■ 50% unemployment, 90% stock market